Empowering people to learn to LiveWell.

A Home for Healing

At LivingWell Institute we are as equally passionate about creating and sustaining a therapeutic environment as we are about providing our community with lifestyle education and a whole person experience.

The Farm Home, located on the Eisenbise Farm in Hershey, is one of our three restorative environments. This four bedroom home has become a hub for client care, team training, outdoor projects, and community gatherings. It has also become a home for several individuals who have chosen to transition out of old, harmful patterns and into a new, healthy lifestyle. The key to such a change is an environment of unconditional love and a commitment to love oneself enough to choose to take responsibility to facilitate change.

Room Available

Do you know someone who is looking for a restorative place to live? There is room available at the Farm home for individuals in need of care, rest, and community. Contact 717-215-9360
